HOW TO ARRIVE TO SALAMANCA?

by plane

Even though Salamanca has its own airport, there are no international flights operating on it at the moment, and the national flights are also very restricted. The easiest way to come from both national and international destinations is by flying to Madrid (Adolfo Suárez Madrid-Barajas Airport), and then taking an alternative means of transport to Salamanca (bus, train or car). There are several ways to leave from Madrid Airport to Madrid Centre: by taxi, underground (two stations one for terminals 1, 2 and 3 and another one for terminal 4) or hired car (major hiring companies operate at the airport).

by train

Trains leave from Príncipe Pío Station to Salamanca. You may buy the tickets at the ticket booth in the station (it is not possible to buy them on board) or in advance on line at www.renfe.es. These trains are normally addressed as “MD” (medium distance) and take around 2h and 40 min. The underground for this train station is “Príncipe Pío” (line 6, line 10).

Some high-speed trains (these leave from Chamartin station) have been launched between Salamanca and Madrid, connecting both cities in 1h and 36 min. You will be able to identify those trains under the label “Alvia”. For timetables please check www.renfe.es . The underground for this train station is “Chamartin” (line 1 and line 10).

From the Airport: Avanzabus rides a bus straight to Salamanca from terminals 1 and 4 of Adolfo Suárez Madrid-Barajas Airport. Even though the tickets may be bought at the terminal (in the travel agency of El Corte Inglés) or directly from the bus driver, we highly recommend you to buy your tickets in advance on line (www.avanzabus.es), since otherwise you may find you will not have space on the bus upon arrival. For timetables please check the website as well.

From Méndez Álvaro Station (Estación Sur): The same company (Avanzabus) rides buses from Madrid to Salamanca. Buses leave from Méndez Álvaro Station also known as Estación Sur de autobuses (Southern Bus Station) and some of them make a stop at 'Intercambiador de Moncloa'. The underground for the bus station is "Méndez Álvaro" (line 6) and it is located inside it, the stop for intercambiador is Moncloa (metro lines 3 and 6). You may buy the ticket at the ticket booth of the station (It is NOT possible to buy it on board), but as previously said, we recommend you to do it in advance on line (www.avanzabus.es).

There are two kinds of buses covering the route: the `Normal` service has middle stops, which makes the trip longer. The `directo` service is a direct bus (non stops). We recommend you to travel always on the `directo` service.

by car

From Madrid you have to take the A6/AP6, take the exit 81 to AP51 and then exit 111 to AP-50. You will find tolls on this route, alternately you may take the national route N-501.

You can get full instructions straight from the Airport to the CLPU here .

There is a public bus that connects Salamanca and the CLPU. You can check fares for 'billete ordinario' -one way- here. The trip lasts around 15-20 minutes.

You can buy the ticket from the bus driver when boarding the bus. You can find timetables and the stops for line 36 (Los Almendros-Villamayor-Salamanca) here.

Heading to the CLPU you will have to get the bus in 'Avenida de Italia' by number 4 (situation map here) or at 'Calle Peña de Francia' (Official Language School) (situation map here).

Heading to Salamanca you will need to take the bus exactly in the same stop the bus left you on your way to CLPU, on the 'Rotonda Puente de Gudino' (situation map here) and you can stop at 'Av.
